

Road Marking in Latvia

Continuous white line

- divides traffic moving in opposite directions;
- designates borders of lanes in dangerous places;
- marking of roads in places where enter is not permitted;
- borders of the parking places;
- the carriageway where stopping and parking are forbidden;
- separates a lane for movement of appointed vehicles.

Double continuous white line divides traffic moving in opposite directions on roads with four or more traffic lanes.

Broken white line

- divides traffic moving in opposite directions on roads with two or three traffic lanes;
- divides traffic moving in the same direction on roads with two or more traffic lanes.

Broken white line

divides traffic moving in the same or opposite directions and warns about approach to the continuous white line or double continuous white line.

Broken white line

designates the places on road sites where the stopping and parking are permitted

Broken white line

designates lanes within an intersection

Broken white line

- a line between an acceleration or braking lanes and main lane;
- a border between a public transport stopping zone and the main lane.

Double broken white line designates borders of lane on which the traffic direction can change on the opposite divides lanes of opposite directions traffic on downhill or uphill

Stop line

Marking of a place where drivers must stop if there is a Stop sign

Marking of a place where drivers must stop to give way vehicles moving through intersection

Marking of uncontrolled pedestrian crossing

Marking of controlled pedestrian crossing

Warns about bump ahead

Islands in places of the traffic lanes division and junction

Directions of traffic movement in lanes

Warning about road narrowing

Warning about approaching to continuous white line.

Marking of a bus lane

Marking of a cycles path

Disabled persons parking zone

Continuous yellow line

Marking of places where stopping and parking is not permitted

Broken yellow line

Marking of places where parking is not permitted

Marking of places where parking is not permitted

Marking of bus stations

Marking of places with road working